TARIFF CHART OF WBTDCL LODGES

Effective from 20.07.2013

EASTERN HIMALAYAN CIRCUIT

Hidden under the shadows of Eastern Himalayas, the hill stations in the North of West Bengal are the major footprints of tourism in the state. Darjeeling, without a doubt is the most important and most visited hill station for its unparalleled beauty, and is aptly termed as the 'Queen of Hills'. Darjeeling, Kalimpong, Kurseong and the adjoining destinations offer a magnificently rejuvenating respite and a grand view of the mountains. The crest of Mt. Kangchendzonga, the third highest peak of the world, shining in the first rays of dawn is a visual treat for a lifetime.

General information The name Barrackpore, originated from the word barracks, is around 25 kms from the centre of Kolkata. It is an industrial township and cantonment situated on the bank of Hooghly river. The first instance of resistance against the British ruler was originated from this place in the form of Sepoy Mutiny in the year 1857. During the British rule, it used to be the country residence of the Viceroy in office. Barrackpore also has a couple of research institutes. One of the main attractions of this place is the riverside. There are several ghats which have green river banks and lot of green old trees around. The Barrackpore station which is along the track of the suburban railway is something very old and was built by the British rulers. It looks old but elegant and has an aura of history.

THE SUNDARBANS

Sunderbans, the world's largest estuarine forest and delta covered by mangrove forests and vast saline mud flats is situated on the lower end of Gangetic West Bengal. Sunderban is characterized by the sundari trees that give the mangrove their name. Sunderban National Park, forming the core area of Sunderban Tiger Reserve, received recognition as World Heritage Site by UNESCO in 1987. Most famously, this protected area is home to the Royal Bengal Tigers. Other wildlife of Sunderban features Jungle Cats, Fishing Cats, Axis Deer, Wild Boar, Rhesus Monkeys, Mongooses and the largest Estuarine Crocodiles in the world. Sunderban is the breeding ground of immense variety of birds and reptiles including Olive Ridley sea turtle. Unlike other forests, here forest safari is ventured by boats sailing through the cluster of forest islands to visit various watch towers.

METRO CIRCUIT

Kolkata: Kolkata is the capital of the Indian state of West Bengal. It is also the commercial capital of Eastern India, located on the East bank of the Hooghly river. Home to four Nobel laureates, Ronald Ross, Rabindranath Tagore, Mother Teresa and Amartya Sen, Kolkata has long been known for its literary, artistic and revolutionary heritage. As the former capital of India, Kolkata was the birthplace of modern Indian literary, artistic and scholastic thoughts. The city is a true blend of tradition and modernity.

The Ganges (also called the Hooghly in Kolkata) is still the inspiration, as it was to Job Charnok, an East India Company agent, who reached the shores in August 1690, and is said to be the founder of the city.

Festivity: - a land of festivals, a land of spirit and enthusiasm, almost all festivals of all religions are celebrated here with equal sentiment and fervor. These festivals are the ways to showcase the tradition and rich culture of the people.

The most popular festival celebrated in West Bengal, however, is the Durga Puja. All the people come out in the streets and celebrate this weeklong festival. Other festivals celebrated are Kaali Puja, Diwali, Holi etc.

Connectivity : Air : Kolkata has a domestic and international airport, well connected with all major destinations of India and abroad.

Rail : Kolkata has three major railway stations namely, Sealdah, Howrah, and Kolkata, connecting the city and the state with all other parts of India.

Road: Kolkata is well connected with other parts of the state and the rest of India by a wide network of roads and national highways.
